VERY IMPORTANT

Each member entitled to vote shall receive his ballot from the Returning Officer, and after marking it shall return it to the Returning Officer, who shall deposit it in the ballot box.

A majority of the total number of votes cast shall be necessary for election to any office. The Hare-Spence system of voting shall be used. In the Hare-Spence system of counting, the voter marks opposite the name of the candidate for whom he wishes to vote, the figure 1; while opposite his second choice for this office he marks the figure 2; and opposite his third choice the figure 3; and so on.

When the number of "first choices" are added, the candidate with the lowest number goes out and his "second choices" are distributed among the others, counting as first. This method of elimination is followed until two are left, and the candidate with the largest count is declared elected.

EDITORIAL

We are once more in the midst of elections, and too much serious thought cannot be given by you for the selection of the man you want in office for the ensuing year. Your vote may have a potential power of only one in your eyes, but it may very probably decide the choice of a candidate. Therefore give as much thought to your second and third choice as your first.

There are three or more vital questions we should ask ourselves before going to the polls. What is the academic standing of the candidate? Has he the time to devote to the office he aspires to? Is he willing to serve unselfishly? The first is easily determined, and of course has a bearing on the second, for any office requires time that should be devoted to study or lectures. By the second, I mean, is the candidate's time taken up with athletic work, club, fraternity or outside pursuits? And last, is the candidate willing to serve unselfishly? Service for what one can get out of it for oneself is obviously not the kind we want, and it is up to you to prevent it. Men who have served unselfishly in small things in the time past, that could not possibly bring them any glory, should be given precedence over the man who springs to life near elections, and then smiles and shakes your hand.

All these points are quite obvious, yet are often overlooked when marking your ballot, and they mean the success or failure of your society. So if we have regard to these points collectively, and the personality of the man running for office, the success of our election is assured.

INTRODUCING MAX HENDRICK

Presidential Candidate

"Now that Algie has been suspended for telling a joke, and Allan suppressed for calling us atheists, its time somebody realized the seriousness of the situation and joined the Globe in its great crusade to purge the campus. Brethren, the foundations of democracy tremble before the insidious attacks of communism; the sanctity of the home is endangered by the atheistic doctrines propagated by our professors (example: $s=ut+\frac{1}{2}at$ and that shamelessly blasphemous statement $H=hp+hu+hr$) while the pure mind of youth falls prey to that instrument of the devil—co-education. Let us, therefore, pension all policemen, move the Meds to Guelph, and have it out with Burwash."

In the above exclusive interview, Max Hendrick, Presidential candidate, states his platform, and requests your support. As a member of Toike Oike and Transactions Boards for the past two years he has demonstrated an ability to work; and this year, as Director of Publications, he has gained a valuable knowledge of the machinery of the Society, which equips him for the bigger job of President.

His other activities are varied but not spectacular. He spends his summers flying at Borden; his winters shooting bull at the Debating Club and on the Rifle Range, for a net gain of several trinkets which could be much more easily swiped from Childs'.

DONALDSON AS PRESIDENT

Logie Donaldson is a candidate in the field for the Presidency of the Engineering Society. In his campaign he will not attempt to break all standing records for flowery oratory and promises of reform but is running on continuation of the standard of work which he has performed while an executive at school. Comparison is welcomed in this case. He began as treasurer of 3T2 and last year was elected to, and has served in the same capacity for the Engineering Society. Since the holder of this office is solely responsible for the financial matters of the Society and books after the payment of expenses of all accounts and committees, it is logical that the training received in this manner would help to qualify a man for the higher office.

So, on a platform of experience and ability and on his record as a school track man—"Log" Donaldson's nomination is submitted.

ENTERTAINMENT

Don't miss the fun over in the little old Second Year Drafting Room—scene of many a wild party—on Friday night—you know—election night.

About eight o'clock festivities will commence and from then until ten there will not be many quiet intervals.

Election results will be announced as they become known, and a variety of entertainment has been arranged, including the usual chariot races.

Those who are hungry will find abundance of sandwiches and those who are thirsty—well my advice is to come and get first hand information.

SPENCE JEWETT FOR PRESIDENT

Spence Jewett—Vice-President of the Engineering Society for 1930-1931, is running for President of the Engineering Society. His executive experience should be a decided recommendation for this position.

In his Freshman year, Spence Jewett was secretary-treasurer of the class, and if any position demands ingenuity, patience, energy, etc., that one does. For some strange reason Freshmen have a great reluctance to parting with the desired five spot.

Last year, Spence was President of the Sophomore class, and in this capacity was closely associated with the initiation, and the Junior School At-Home. (The only at-home that didn't lose money.)

This year as 2nd Vice-President of the Engineering Society in charge of the store, Spence has had plenty of opportunity for hard work. The financial success of the store during this period speaks for itself. Among other things, he has been managing the Senior School Ball Team, which feels confident of clinching the Spalding Cup for School.

Spence Jewett has the executive ability, experience, and social standing required by the President of the Engineering Society, and on these qualifications solicits your support.

MACDONALD CARTIER CLUB NOTICE

There will be a luncheon meeting of the Macdonald Cartier Club in the North Common Room, Hart House, at 1 p.m., Monday, March 9th. Premier Henry will be the guest of the Club. All Schoolmen members of the Club please take notice.

BLACK AS 1st VICE PRESIDENT

Ernie Black has been nominated as 1st Vice of the Engineering Society.

The duties of this office have been increased this year. Now, besides holding a responsible position on the Society and being Chairman of the School Dinner and School At-Home Committees, he must act as Supervisor of all school social functions.

In the past year, Black has carried out the duties of 3rd Year President. He and his committee are to be complimented on the running of two very successful year parties. Mr. Black can claim further experience in this kind of work, having served on the At-Home Committee in his first year. As president of 3rd year, he has taken an active part in the affairs of the Engineering Society in the past year.

In conclusion may we say that, if elected, he will endeavor to carry out the duties of 1st Vice to the best of his ability.

M. AND M. CLUB DINNER

A dinner of the Mining and Metallurgical Club will take place on Wednesday, March 11, at 7 p.m., in the Great Hall of Hart House. All members are urgently requested to note the change in date and place from March 10 in the Graduates' Room.

The speaker of the evening will be Mr. S. C. Bateman, Secretary of the Ontario Mining Association. Mr. Bateman has prepared a paper on the Gold and Silver situation which should prove to be one of the most interesting addresses heard by the club.

All members are particularly requested to be present at this meeting which will be the last one of the year.

M. McKillop
Sec. Eng. Soc.

TED SHARPE FOR 1st VICE PRESIDENT

Ted Sharpe is in the field to carry on with the work which he has so ably done in the past. He is without a doubt one man who has done more than his share in keeping up School's reputation for the largest and finest faculty dinner and the best dance on the campus. For the past umpteen years he has been on both dinner and dance committees and for the last two years has handled the treasurer's job of looking after the money and ticket sales, for both committees, to perfection. Besides this actual experience on these two all important committees he has served on two year party and one Junior School committees. Thus Ted comes before the electors, experienced in handling the executive and financial ends of the 1st Vice-President's office, and can capably fill the shoes of Dutton with whom he worked the past year in making the School Dinner and Dance the two most outstanding successes of their kind held in the University.

3T1 GRADUATION DANCE

Members and former members of 3T1 will meet at the Roof Garden of the Royal York at 9 p.m., Friday, March 13th. Romanelli will supply a raucous noise to which the last and final dance of 3T1 will be celebrated.

It is hoped that every member will be on hand that evening.

PERMANENT EXECUTIVE

After four years of striving for academic success, a few of the more retiring members of our year are emerging from obscurity to fight for the honour and glory of 3T1. They aspire to be the leaders, "ad infinitum," of the rank and file of the best class yet to leave the halls of the "Little Red School House."

Two sly blades are going to wage a hot battle for the honour of being first man of the harem. Jimmy Boyd and Willy Dutton are the reckless reggies. Though their records could be reviewed at great length with much fervour we might just as well be honest (an inherent characteristic) and say that one is just as bad as the other.

Tripol Tyson is stepping down a peg after a year of going places to see people, and will provide Mrs. Franklin's boy with "heavyweight" opposition for Vice-President. Just to make the race interesting "Spike" Irwin and Hen thief Wilson are also pasturing closely. There are worse men who could be running boys, but they graduated in first year.

Steinmetz Einstein Ward, the electrical wizard, also desires to show his proficiency as a confidence man. His main qualifications for an executive position are that he is a good occer player and can do calculus problems backwards. At any time he may be expected to break up meetings by de-ducing formulas, propounding theories, damning Einstein or swearing lustily in Bohemian.

Now comes the man who tells you when things are going to happen, robs children and hates his mother-in-law. The man who collects the money at class dinners (if any), who engineers class recessions (if any), collaborates with home coming committees and gouges rising young Bond salesmen and Insurance agents of their hard earned money. (School demonstrators excepted.) For this office we have F. F. F. F. Dyer and Wee Archie Macpherson. Dyer is an “honest” man, and Macpherson is Scotch, take your choice boys.

The position of Councillor is one which was instituted so that more men would run for offices. The men running for this office never have and never will do any work nor amount to a pinch of Peruvian. They are the laziest quartet ever assembled and are the basic cause for many questionable stories concerning bums and bumming. Just to check them over. This man Doyle speaks for himself and everybody else. Nobody within the radius of a city block ever has a chance. Conditions are certainly bad when men like this even get nominated. Roistering Oliver Willis with the deep bass voice, is a man's for a' that. We don't know very much about this man before his arrival at University, but how our education has progressed since his advent into select circles. We wouldn't trust him with anything important but in this office he can only give advice which is free.

Stanton Claves Davison Lawson.
Born———

Died—Note—We'll fill this in as soon as Al. Capone gets through with Perkins Bull.

A man of pure and lofty mind, high principles and strong for moral uplift and superiority, staunch in support of Y.W.C.A. and W.C.T.U. and an ardent worker for the Girls' Friendly Society. Careful boys watch your step.

And the fourth man—well we left him to the end for a reason—all that has been said so far applies to him in full measure. Commonly known as Pansy but among those who have had to bear his close association for the past year four years he is no common Panay; no sir! nothing less than Panayoti Allen Ballachey. Possibly he is the best qualified of the whole gang for this councillor racket for he certainly has all the necessary qualifications mentioned above. But he's sure to get in anyway—who could resist that cute little silken moustache he wears—women cry for it—babies play with it—well maybe we'd better not tell you the rest.

These are the men from who you must pick a government and become their loyal subjects following wherever their foolishness may lead and supporting any idiotic thing which they may choose to run.

SCHOOLMEN

Again you are called on to elect the men who for the next year, are to be your representatives.

Weigh their merits carefully. Remember that everyone, members of other faculties, alumni, the faculty, and non university people will form their opinions of you from the character and deportment of the men whom you elect to represent you.

When voting, think of the man for whom you cast your vote as acting as your personal representative on the manny difficult and embarrassing situations that arise.

Especially do I ask you to consider these things when voting for next year's president. Who will best impress prominent engineers and the alumni as being a typical embryo engineer; who can do the most to enhance the prestige of School among students of other faculties, who can work best with his own executive and keep a firm hand on the key to the treasury; who has judgment to make quick and correct decisions and the backbone to stick by them. May the best men win.

Sincerely,

BERT TYSON.

EDITORIAL?

There'll be no Editorial this time,
Just let the Editor write these lines.
He's not responsible at all,
For any term, design or scrawl,
Bear this in mind my pretty miss,
That if there's anything amiss
The man responsible for the sight
Is here with you at this School-Nite.

A harried young man rushed into a barroom, looking furtively around him, and whispered to the bartender—"Give me a drink—quick—before the trouble begins."

The bartender scurried to pour out the drink, which the gentleman gulped down in a swallow, shoving the empty glass back and hissing—"Another one, quick, before the trouble begins."

The bartender hastily obeyed and when he had watched the second one disappear he could no longer refrain from inquiring when the trouble was to begin.

"It begins right now," said the stranger. "I've got no money to pay for these drinks."

* * *

Warden—"So you think your safe now. If we give you your liberty, will you leave liquor and women alone?"

Inmate—"I sure will."

Warden—"You'd better stay here. You're still crazy."

* * *

Professor (to freshman entering class late)—"On what date were you born, young man?"

Freshman—"On April 2nd, sir."

Professor—"Hum, being late must be a habit with you."

* * *

Alice (to late returning husband)—"Is that you, Al?"

Al—"It'd better be."

* * *

"Darling, I could sit here and do nothing but look at you forever."

"Yeah, that's what I'm beginning to think, too!"

THE NECKED TRUTH

I think that I shall never see
A girl refuse a meal that's free
A girl whose hungry eyes aren't fixed
Upon a coke that's being mixed.
A girl who isn't prone to wear
A lot of junk stuck in her hair.
But girls are loved by fools like me
For who the heck can neck a tree?

* * *

It doesn't matter how watchful and vigilant a girl is: if a fellow kisses her, its ten to one he'll do it right under her nose.

Cutie (in department store)—"Do you have notions on this floor?"

Floorwalker (appraisingly) — "Frequently, but we can't give way to them during business hours."

* * *

She laughed when I sat down at the piano; but when I came over to the divan, she got scared as hell.

* * *

Remember way back when . . . wolves had four feet.

"Well, I think I'll put the motion before the house," said the chorus girl as she danced out onto the stage.

"Bob, had you been drinking when you came home last night?"

"That's just like a woman. Just because I had a little difficulty in getting in, because I couldn't pronounce a few words, because I took off my clothes in the living room, and wore my silk hat in bed, you rush to the conclusion that I had been drinking."

* * *

"What's the matter here?" asked the policeman of the battered man lying on the sidewalk outside an apartment house.

"Oh, just absent mindedness," was the reply.

"What are you talking about?" retorted the officer.

"Well, you see I live on the fourth floor of this building. My wife and I are both very absent minded. I just came down from a long business trip, and my wife and I were at the dinner table when a step sounded in the hall and someone tried the door. Well, my wife is so absent minded that she said—"Goodness, here comes my husband!" "And I'm so absent minded that I jumped out the window."

"I was out with a drunk the other night and he headed right for a telephone pole."

"The dog."

* * *

Fugitive—"Quick! Where can I hide? The police are after me!"

Office Employee—"In the filing cabinet. Nobody can find anything there."

* * *

"As I understand the case," said his honor, "you and your husband had a drunken altercation, and you were kicked in the ensuing rumpus."

"No, sah, Judge," replied Mandy, "Ah was kicked in de stummick."

* * *

"John, I'm sure I heard a mouse squeak."

"Well, do you want me to get up and oil it?"

* * *

Sometimes the apple of a man's eye turns out to be a hot potato.

* * *

For Sale—A violin, by a young man in good condition, except for a loose peg in the head.

* * *

To the Editor of the Lovelorn—"Six months ago I became engaged to a young man, I found he had a wooden leg, should I break it off?"

Jack had just been informed by his father that he was spending twice as much money at college as he should.

"Son," remarked the father, "I know you're spending it on whiskey and women. I don't mind you fooling around with one of these, but you can't keep up the pace with both. You've got to cut one of them out absolutely."

"All right, Dad, I'm willing. Which one would you advise me to cut out?"

The old man thought in silence for a moment and then said, "Son, you can drink all the whiskey you want when you get old."

* * *

Eightball—"What fo' dat doctah comin' outa yoah house?"

Blackout—"Ah dunno but ah's gotta inkling."

The jury found the defendant guilty of burglary.

"Have you anything to say before I sentence you?" asked the judge.

"Only that I'm not guilty," replied the defendant, "and that I object to being identified by a fellow who had his head under the bed covers, all the time I was in the room."

A doctor's telephone rang one night, awakening him from fitfull slumber. It was one of his regular patients, a man in a wild state of alarm.

"My wife, doctor," he shouted. "Its her appendix. You'd better come around and see her at once."

The doctor sighed and told the man to go back to bed. "Give her some bicarbonate or ginger ale, and I'll look in tomorrow," he said. "She hasn't got appendicitis."

The husband became even wilder, insisting that she did have appendicitis.

"Well, she can't have!" the doctor shouted. "I took her appendix out three years ago and I never heard of anyone having two appendixes."

"Ever hear of anybody having two wives?" the man asked bitterly.

* * *

Customer—"I wish to try on that dress in the window."

Clerk—"Sorry, lady, but you'll have to use the fitting room."

For the fourth time the corporation lawyer conducting the cross-examination led the witness to the accident.

"You say that after the street car passed, the man was seen lying on the ground with his scalp bleeding. Did the car hit him?"

"Naw," exploded the exasperated witness, "The conductor leaned out and hit him as he went by."

* * *

Sambo went to his parson one day and said, "Pahson, will yo' all pray fo' my floatin' kidney next Sunday?"

"Well, Sambo," said the preacher, "I'd be glad to do anything for you, but do you think that that's a proper thing to pray for in church?"

"Well, Pahson, Ah thought you prayed fo' something like that las' Sunday. You prayed long and hard fo' de loose livers."

Charlie—"Here's a ticket to the magician's show to-night, Connie."

Connie—"Thank ye, Charlie."

Charlie—"And Connie, dear, when he comes to that trick where he takes a teaspoon o' flour and one egg and makes 20 emelettes watch very closely."

* * *

"There's only one thing wrong with me blondie, I'm colour blind."

"You all sho' mus' be mistah."

* * *

Voice over telephone—"Is Mike Howe there?"

Answer—"What do you think this is, a stock yards?"

NOT ELIGIBLE

"Those new people across the street seem very devoted," said Mrs. Jones wistfully to the newspaper which hid her husband. A rustle of the paper was the only reply she got, but she was used to that.

"Every time he goes out he kisses her and he goes on throwing her kisses all the way down the street. Edward, why don't you do that?"

"Me?" snorted Mr. Jones. "I don't even know her."

A young lawyer attended the funeral of an eminent financier. A friend arrived at the funeral a little late, took a seat beside the lawyer and whispers: "How far has the service gone?" The lawyer nodded toward the clergyman in the pulpit and whispered back: "Just opened for the defense."

* * *

"She is a nicely reared girl, isn't she?"
"I should say so. Not bad from the front either."

* * *

Friend—"Which of your works of fiction do you consider best?"

Author—"My last income tax return."

No clergyman being present at a recent luncheon, the host singled out a pious, solemn looking man in a black coat and tie, with a religious appearance and asked him to pronounce a blessing. The gentleman after being addressed put his hand to his ear and craned forward intently. "I can tell you're talking to me, sir," he said loudly, "but I'm so damn deaf I can't tell what in hell you're saying."

* * *

Two small boys were walking down the street when they chanced to pass a small girl.

One of the boys said—"Her neck's dirty."

The other boy said—"Her does?"

* * *

My roommate says there are some things a girl shouldn't do before twenty.

"Yeah, I don't like an audience either."

"Glad to see you getting to work on time, Ed."

"Yes, sir. It's the parrot."

"Parrot? I thought I told you to get an alarm clock."

"Well, I did, but I got used to it, and slept right through. So I got a parrot, and hung the clock over his cage, what that bird says when the alarm goes off would wake anybody."

He—"There's a certain reason why I love you."

She—"My goodness!"

He—"Don't be ridiculous."

* * *

The one—"Why are you divorcing your husband?"

The other—"The other night he was reading the paper, and I slipped up and kissed him on his bald spot."

The one—"Yes?"

The other—"And he said, 'quit playing, honey, and get out those letters I dictated yesterday'."

* * *

Boss—"When you called up my wife and told her I would be detained at the office and would not be home until very late, what did she say?"

Steve—"She said, can I depend on that?"

* * *

"Is my face dirty or is it my imagination?"

"Your face is clean, I can't tell about your imagination."

* * *

She—"John, dear, I wouldn't let anyone else kiss me like this."

He—"My name isn't John."

"Hello, sweetheart," said a masculine voice over the telephone. "This is Gideon."

"This is a terrible connection," answered the treble voice, "Who did you say it was?"

"Gideon! GIDEON!"

"What?"

"Gideon. G for gin; I for ice; D for drink; E for excess; O for ore-eyed; and N for necking. Get it?"

"Well, not all of it, but anyhow, come right up."

She—"Say, it's past midnight. Do you think you can stay here all night?"

He—"Gosh, I'll have to telephone Mother first."

* * *

Teacher—"Does your father pray Susie?"

Susie—"Yes, teacher. When we sat down to supper last night the first thing he said was, 'Good Lord! We've got beans again'."
